

HISTORICAL COURIER. 2022. No. 1 (21)Issue Topic:
History and Memory: the Potential for Interaction

CONTENTS

From the Editor (Rus.)	7
From the Editor	8

History and Memory: the Potential for Interaction

S.A. Krasilnikov. History and Memory in the Context of Political Interests	9–21
D.O. Nikulin. Struggling Against Myth-Creating in The Study of the First World War as an Answer to a Social Reques	22–29
D.N. Moskalenskaya. Coverage of Soviet Repressive and Discriminatory Policies in Post-Soviet School Textbooks	30–38
S.N. Ushakova. Collective and Individual Memory about the Events of the Russian and Soviet History in the Holocaust Collection of University of Southern California Shoah Foundation’s Visual History Archive	39–44
E.A. Erokhina. Institutes of Public Memory in the Discursive Space of Neotradition: The Novosibirsk Case	45–54

Memory and Oblivion

E.N. Nazemtseva. “Intercepted Fates”: Correspondence of Russian Emigrants in the Funds of the Central Archive of the FSB of Russia	55–71
A.A. Kruzhalina. “The Beilis Case” in the Reflections of the “Jewish Soviet Intelligentsia” (on the materials of A. Kagan’s heritage)	72–76
V.A. Fisyukov. The Use of Techniques of Repressive Oblivion as an Example of the legitimization of the Exclusion of L.D. Trotsky from the VKP(b)	77–88
S.A. Papkov. Vivian Itin during the Party Purge of 1929: Another Step Towards Ruin	89–97
T.K. Allaniyazov. The History of Armed Uprisings and Rebel Movements in 1929–1931 in Kazakhstan in the Latest Studies (2001–2021)	98–115
M.Yu. Shmatov. The Mobilized Past: the Memory Policy and Its Perception in Ideological Campaigns in Western Siberia (1934–1939)	116–123
A.D. Derendyaeva. The Famine of the 1930s in the Kazak (Kazakh) ASSR: Influence of Modern Cinema on the Identity Construction	124–132

Memory of the War

A.S. Zhanbosinova. Historical Memory of the Great Patriotic War in the Space of Kazakhstan	133–144
S.V. Smirnov. I.I. and A.N. Serebrennikov in the Construction of “New Order” in East Asia	145–153

- I.V. Rebrova.* Memory Sites of 214 Children with Disabilities from the Yeysk Orphanage: an Oral History Interview with an Eyewitness of the 1942 Crime154–171
- A.V. Vlasov.* The Search for One’s Own Identity: Communicative and Cultural Memory in the Memoirs of Employees of the Soviet Military Administration in Germany172–183

Open Archives

- A.M. Ablazhey, N.N. Ablazhey.* Evenki Hydroelectric Power Station: “For” and “Against” (to the History of the Debates on This Mega-Project)184–216
- E.N. Kryakin.* “Jews in the Soviet Union to Be!” The Problem of Choosing the Path of Life of Soviet Jewry in the Years of Late Perestroika217–225
- S.S. Padalko.* The Material Jewish Heritage of Krasnodar226–232

Ad memoriam

- Professor Victoria Slivovskaya has Passed Away233–235
- In Memory of Natalia Nikolaevna Rodigina236–237